Answer: The domain of an exponential function of this form is all real numbers. The range (co-domain) is all positive real numbers. For  $b > 1$ ,  $f(x)$  is increasing -- its graph rises to the right. As  $x$  increases without bound, so does  $f(x)$ , but as  $x$  decreases without bound,  $f(x)$  approaches zero.

Recall that the one-to-one property of exponential functions tells us that, for any real numbers  $b$ ,  $S$ , and  $T$ , where  $b > 0$ ,  $b \neq 1$ ,  $b^S = b^T$  if and only if  $S = T$ . In other words, when an exponential equation has the same base on each side, the exponents must be equal. This also applies when the exponents are algebraic expressions.

The logarithmic functions are the inverses of the exponential functions, that is, functions that "undo" the exponential functions, just as, for example, the cube root function "undoes" the cube function:  $\sqrt[3]{2^3} = 2$ . Note that the original function also undoes the inverse function:  $(\sqrt[3]{8})^3 = 8$ . Let  $f(x) = 2^x$ .
